Auszeit in der Natur...

An ingenious invention – the 'Beach Butler,' discovered at Trendset in Munich. All the woods used come from PEFC- or FSC-certified forestry and are crafted in a social institution. These tables are portable, suitable for taking anywhere – to the mountains, the park, the beach, or by the lake. An additional anchoring device (the ground spike) ensures stability on grassy terrain. Leather handles and loops are provided on the sides, so every detail has been considered. The wood can even be engraved with a personal message or logo. The table is available in oak, locust, and iroko. Oak: The heartwood of oak ranges from honey yellow to light brown and darkens under the influence of light. It is highly stable and robust. Locust: The color tone varies from yellowish-green to brown and darkens under light to become golden brown or even chocolate brown. Locust wood is among the most valuable native wood species and is exceptionally durable. Iroko: The color tone is gray to greenish-yellow, later turning golden brown to dark olive brown, especially in sunlight. Prices: Starting at € 67 (depending on the wood type). Ground Spike: € 6.

This Berlin gin is crafted with 13 botanicals, including juniper, coriander, lemon peel, cassia, cardamom, bitter orange, lavender, and angelica root. Cheers! Price: Starting at €14. Made with lots of love and passion.
